of the orehestra seats, the celebrated tragedienne, Miss Charlotte Cushman. The acting of Mrs. Sinclair was really excellent, her pronunciation faultiess, and the reading of her part perfect. The audience applauded her highly, and spoke in admiration of her performances. Mr. Robert Kemp, in the character of Sir Barnard, dis-played most finished acting, and received also the apaudience called for the principal actors, and, in obedience to the call, the curtain was again raised, and Mrs. Sinclair was led forward by Mr. Kemp, amid great enthusia Some bouquets were thrown on the stage. Mrs. Forrest displaying such excessive emotion as to be almost unable Ladies and Gentlemen—Permit me for the moment to by aside the language in which I spoke before you this evening, and to use my own native tongue in expressing to you my deep gratitude for the smiles and favors with which you have rewarded me to night. I ventured to come before you this evening, in the character which I assumed in compliance with a promise to that effect which, some months ago, I gave to my friend Mr. Kemp. Tomorrow I proceed to Burope to fulfil my duty towards my parents—a duty I am certain you will appreciate, when, perhaps, it may be that I will then see them for the last time. I will again return, when I hope to receive from you that favor and support which will induce me to attain that high rank in the profession which you have hitherto led me to think I would succeed in reaching.

Mrs. Forrest delivered these simple words, in a state of xtreme sgitation and nervousness and seemed deeply affected. Mr. Kemp then came forward and delivered a brief address in French, of which the following is a trans-

Ladies and Gentlemen—I feel the necessity of expressing to you my very lively thanks for the brilliant array which you have been kind enough to exhibit at this representation. I thank you for it doubly—for myself and for Madame Sinclair, who, I am confident, will, in a short time, be an artiste who will do honor to the French stage, already so rich in the world of art, by its great celebrities. As an artist, and as a Frenchman, I am replaced at it, because it will be weonquest entirely pacific made over America, great and noble, and over England.

The audience applanded both these sensible and appro priate addresses, the actors acknowledged the compli

Mrs. Sinclair purposes remaining at her professional career. She has been offered very lucra. tive engagements by several of the London managers, nos to appear, at present, on the English stage; and in proof of the sincerity of this intention we learn that she not, from the great improvement apparent in her acting since she made her début here last winter, that Mrs. Forrest will yet attain the highest rank in her profession-We wish her prosperous voyages, and a happy sojourn in

THE SCHOONER QUEEN OF THE WEST .- The Well Bedford Mercury. In noticing the destruction of the schooner Queen of the West, with her erew, by the natives of Madagascar, says:

"The Queen of the West sailed from Dartmouth about two years since, on a trading voyage. She was owned by Osptain Whelden, and, with her cargo valued at about $12,000. cm which there is no insurance. Her officers and erew were as follows: Joseph T. Whelden, master; is the Whelden, mate, both of Dartmouth; Thomas Stephensen, Boston; Joseph Stephens, Liebon; Michael Smith, boy, of Charlestown, Mass. Captain Whelden was an enterprising ship master, formerly in the whale fishery, and. It may be remembered, was among the carliest adventurers to California, embarking at this port in 1849, in a plibt boat schooner of about thirty-five tons, in which he made a successful voyage around Cape Horn to San Francisco."

Editorial from the "Morning Star."—
Token of Sympathy for an Exiled Patriot.—We believe the the escape of Thomas F. Measher, the eloquent frish patriot, has excited feetings of pleasure; in every American treast: and we learn that one of our fellow-citizens. Mr. ROCERS the well known proprietor of the Union Hall Clething Warehouse, corner of Fulton and Nassau streets, has just been testifying his admiration of "the man and the cause" in a characteristic way, virs.—by presenting to the exile some beautiful articles of clothing from his celebrated establishment. Mr. R is an orthonistic votary of political freedom, as well as a successful tradesman; and his principles like his unsurpassed clothing, may be safely warranted as of the very best class.

The flot Crowd at Genn's.—It there's any trush in the popular maxim that the voice of the majority is the voice of justice, Genin has reason to congratalate himself; for never has the demand for his summer styles come within a bow shot of that which prevails this season. His corps of salemen, active as they are, and strengthened by new rearnite, find it almost impossible to keep pace with the new rearnite, find it almost impossible to keep pace with the new styles in felt, straw grass. So, which he has introduced during the present month. Well, he can bear it.

Dr. Kellinger has shown the only evidence of restoring the hair, when gene from twenty to thirty years, that ever has been shown in this or any other countries of the state o

Dr. Kellinger was also successful with Miss Sean Glescon, of No 70 Norfolk street, who had lost her cyckrows and hair, and wors a wig four years. She has regained both, finer, thicker, and softer than the original. Mr. G. W. Walling, of the Chief's office, Gity Hall, was hald about five years; he has a beautiful fine thick curling head of hair by its use. Thomas W. Barker, of 60 Macdoural street, was hald ten years—renewed beautifully. Mr. J. H. Merriam of 45 Wats street, will relate his cousin's care. Mr. E. H. Dizen, whe formerly resided in New York city, was bald from his seventeenth to his forty-second year, had his portrait painted on a bald head, and his Daguerrootype taken with a beautiful. fine. soft, thick head of natural hair, produced by the use of Kellinger's Magic Fluid. Mrs. Mary Barely, near Williamsburg ferry, says that the hair was restored upon two of her granddaughters by using a few bettles. Mr. S. Kipp has a highly marked case in his own family, firm of Kipp & Brown, Twenty-sixth street, Ninth avenue. Mr. D. L. Ormshy, of Lamartine place, restored the hair upon his wife's head with the use of a few bottles. These cases it will rendity be seen, are not in China, California, or New South Wales, People are fools to be decared where you buy, both wholesale and retail; there is foul play in the market. This is the most clean, beautiful, and certain remedy ever offered for sele in this or any other country. Sold in large elegant tollet bottles, at present, for $1 each, and $9 per deven cash invariably. 259 Pearl street, 476 and 300 Broadway. It will be more before it is less.

Thomas Francis Heagher.—A splendid De-guerren Portrait of this distinguished Irish Patriot was taken yesterday by Whitchburst, at his gallery, 340 Bread-way, where it is on exhibition, with portraits of John Mitchell, Savage, Reilly, Brennan, and other exiles, from the "Green Isie."

He who hath bent him o'er the dead,

Fre the first day of death is fled—
Before decay's effacing fingers
Have swept the lines where beauty lingers—
And marked the mild angelle air,
The rapture of repose that's there;
Some moments are one treachereous hour,
He still might doubt the tyrant's power—
So fair, so calm, so cotily sealed.
The first, last look by death revealed.
If Byron had written this over a picture of his beloved cousin, Mary Parker, after her death, he could not have made his word-painting more vivid. Indeed, Byron was with words, what Root is with the Daguerraa Camera—one of the greatest artists in the world. Byron is gone, but ROOT is still at 303 Broadway.

Fine Arts—Daguerreotypes in Oil—By W. H. Butler, corner of Breadway and Murray street, (Plumb National Gallery, These pertraits combine the detail of the daguerreotype with the finish of the facest miniature painting. Being on a metallic surface, they are imperishable, as well as the most truthful and beautiful pertrait made.

Gen. Franklin Pierce and William R. It spoits the appearance of any man, however nature may have favored him, while, on the contrary, the peeriess shirts made to order by GREEN, No. 1 sator House, confor a grace even on the ungraceful.

Paris Mantilla Emportam, No. 361 Broadway, New Yerk.—The proprietor of this establishment, having confined himself exclusively to the importation of Paris Mantillae, embracing overy new doing that Parisian ingenity and skill could invent, and from his long experience and practical knowledge of his business, he feels justified in ascording that there is a uniqueness and a piquancy so strikingly manifest in his Mantillas, as to place them beyond the reach of competition. The great patronage which he has hitherto received, and his inability, in many instances, to meet the requirements of his numerous parons, ronder it indispensable that an enlargement of his store should be effected, with as little delaying possible. He has accordingly made arrangements to have it extended at least 120 feet in length more. He is now preparing to take his departure for Europe in order to make ample proparation for the fall trade. He will therefore discose of his present varied and splendid stock of Mantillas, Crape and other Shawle, at such moderate prices as must inevitably meet the approbation of the ladies of this great metropolis.
